Piano primo

This architectural drawing shows the first-floor elevation of a house. The house features a light grey gabled roof and a main facade with a mix of light grey and dark grey panels. On the left, there is a large window with a white frame. To its right is a balcony with a dark railing. Further right is a white door with a small window above it. The ground floor is partially obscured by a red car parked on the left and a person standing on the right. The house is surrounded by greenery, including trees and bushes. The text 'Piano primo' is written in the top left corner with an arrow pointing to the drawing.
